All aboard! Pupils live out war-time evacuation

YOUNGSTERS travelled back 70 years to see what it was like for evacuees at the beginning of World War Two.

They re-enacted the journey to the countryside – in this case Epping – just children had done all those years ago.

The 'operation' had been researched through original school log books and archives at Valence House Museum, Dagenham.

The modern-day evacuees, chaperoned by costumed volunteers started from Heathway and Upney stations, with the cardboard gas mask cases they had made and suitcases, eventually reaching their destination via the historic Epping to Ongar rail line.

Pupils from St Joseph's, Manor Junior and St Margaret's schools in Barking sang wartime songs – and wrote postcards home on their train journey.

Former evacuee from Dagenham Thomas Burt said: "The first time we were only away for six or seven weeks. In 1940 we went to the West Country by train and stayed away until the end of the war."

TIME TO GO: Pupils from St Margaret's and St Joseph's Manor schools in Barking went back in time to re-live a war-time evacuation. Above, Manor Junior pupils write home on the train.

GOVE ACTS OVER PROBLEM SCHOOL

By Pat Jones

barking@yellowad.co.uk

EDUCATION Secretary Michael Gove has removed all governors at troubled Eastbury Primary School.

He decided to act following months of problems at the school and after he rejected Barking and Dagenham Council replacing the board with its own candidates.

The Yellow Advertiser has seen letters sent by Mr Gove to the school. In them, he describes how he decided to nominate the board himself because 'it would not be appropriate for the local authority to do so, while the DfE (Department for Education) investigates allegations concerning actions of officials and elected members in relation to the school'.

Barking and Dagenham Council refused to comment on whether the council's head of children's services, or the member in charge of schools, councillor John White would resign over the school's crisis. A council spokesman said neither were implicated in allegations that surround the DfE investigation.

The Education Secretary said he had acted after 'information received as a result of the department's ongoing investigation in relation to the school'.

Parents spokeswoman Moni Wright said: "We are delighted with the news. We have been unhappy with the school for a couple of years. I think this is going to be good for the school."

"We decided to go straight to the Minister because we could not get help from the local authority."

A council spokesman said new a headteacher, Leigh Hovey, has been appointed and will start at the school in September. Carole Thomas remains the interim headteacher at the school until then. The new board has been working in the school since its appointment last Monday.

The parents who appealed directly to the DfE were warned last month not to speak out by Barking and Dagenham Council, and threatened with legal action for defamation. They had been campaigning for an investigation into the way the Dawson Avenue school was run.

Last month the DfE said in a statement: "This is a school which has had a number of serious issues for some time. We are investigating allegations about the leadership, management and governance of the school."

Bolenium Bill returns home for Valence House exhibition

BOLENIUM Bill, the trademark figure for a Dagenham industrial clothing company, is back home from America to star in a museum exhibition.

Two researchers working on the exhibition, Made in Barking and Dagenham, tracked him down to an Arizona stockroom, where he had languished for years.

Bolenium was the brand name for industrial clothing manufactured by WA Smith & Co between 1915 and 1995 – and Bill was the advertising face.

The company made overalls, bib and braces, jackets and trousers, and in the '70s added racing white overalls – worn by Jackie Stewart, Sir Stirling Moss and James Hunt.

It is hard to find the Bolenium Bill shop signs, advertising plaques and in-store models which still remain, so Ann Robey and Jonathan Clarke, who are putting the exhibition together were delighted to find Bill alive and well in the States.

Valence House which is hosting the exhibition is also on the look out for posters, photos and historic material relating to Dagenham's industrial past – see www.lbbd.gov.uk

The facts: W A Smith & Co

- W A Smith & Co was started in Green Street, West Ham in a Tudor house called Boleyn Castle – which gave the product its name.
- The house was demolished in 1855.
- The company moved to Selina Lane Dagenham in 1940 where it stayed until moving to Seven Kings in 1995

Council launches short breaks directory for youngsters

BARKING and Dagenham Council launched its directory of short breaks for disabled children with a family fun day, which attracted more than 200 visitors.

The publication is full of enjoyable getaways for the child or young person – and a break for parents and carers.

Short breaks can be at weekends, after school or in the holidays; they can be for a few hours or a few days and are arranged round the needs and wishes of the family.

John White, Barking and Dagenham Council cabinet member for children's services said: "Short Breaks offer families a sell away from caring responsibilities.

"They give the child the opportunity to have fun and experience something new as well as make new friends who are in the same situation."

Direct payments are made by the local council so parents and carers can arrange to pay for their own care and support services.

It gives them the option to purchase short break services directly from those organisations that are included in the directory, secure in the knowledge they have been vetted and offer the necessary safeguarding.

PROUD: Trophy winner Andrew Fraser with Alisdair Suttie, who presented the award.

Top award revs up engine production

AN ENGINE developed at Ford's Dunton and Dagenham plants has won the international engine of the year award for the second year running.

The 1.0-litre EcoBoost was designed in the motor giant's R&D plants in Essex and east London.

A panel of 87 automotive journalists from 35 countries from around the world judged the the awards.

Ford is one of only three car makers to record back-to-back victories in the awards.

One of the engineers working on the turbo-charged, direct-injection, three-cylinder engine - which achieved the highest score in the awards 15-year history - has been honoured for his work on the engine..

Andrew Fraser, Ford's gasoline calibration manager, has been given the Jim Clark Memorial Award by the Association of Scottish Motoring Writers, which recognises Scots who have excelled in motor sport and automotive development.

Ford plans to double production of the engine in Cologne to 1,000 a day from August.

Former apprentices star in film project

CARE worker Richard Richards is an ideal choice to star in a film promoting the national apprenticeship service.

Now a senior carer in a Dagenham care home, where he completed an apprenticeship, he hopes to help others find a career they will enjoy.

Richard, who always wanted to work in the caring industry is one of four past apprentices to feature in the film that illustrates the wide variety of opportunities available in the care world.

He completed an Intermediate Apprenticeship in Health and Social Care with the company.

"My Apprenticeship has given me a leg up the career ladder in the care sector. I knew for quite a while that I wanted to work in this sector but I wasn't sure of the best way to go about it.

"Being an apprentice meant from the outset I was doing exactly what I wanted to do - from day one I got plenty of face to face time with the people I care for, while also gaining vocational qualifications that have helped me to progress in my career. Becoming an apprentice is one of the best decisions I ever made," said Richard, who is 32.

"Apprentices earn while they learn in a real job, gaining a real qualification and a real future and there are now a wide range of apprenticeships available across the sector, including the new Higher Apprenticeship in Care Leadership and Management," said Sharon Allen, CEO at Skills for Care.

Employers, led by Skills for Care, the Sector Skills Council for the social care sector, are being encouraged to show the film across the sector and to young people.

It will also be used by the National Apprenticeship Service in resource packs for schools and at careers events up and down the country. To view and share the film, visit www.apprentice.tv

The other apprentice 'stars' are ■ Katie Gaston, 21, who completed an Intermediate and Advanced Apprenticeship in Children's Care, Learning and Development at Fennies Under 5's in Croydon and is now undertaking a Higher Apprenticeship in Leadership and Management and is an assistant manager at the company.

■ Lily Middleton, 18, who completed an Intermediate Apprenticeship in Allied Professional Health Support at James Paget University Hospitals in Norfolk and is now working as a therapy assistant at the hospital, and

■ Lindsay Giess, 32, from Ludlow, completed an Advanced Apprenticeship in Health and Social Care at Hendra Healthcare and is now a senior carer at the residential home.

Eyesore gardener gets big bill

AN EYESORE garden that attracted rats has cost a householder more than £1,000 in court.

Martin Olomofe was prosecuted after he ignored three warnings and failed to remove rubbish and vegetation from his garden.

Havering Magistrates heard neighbours had complained his land was piled high with rubbish and overgrown vegetation. They also told the council they had seen rats in the Hooks Hall Drive, Dagenham garden, it was heard.

Barking and Dagenham council's environmental health department sent Olomofe a warning letter, which he ignored, followed by an official notice in November 2012, which was also disregarded, followed by a final warning before it took court action.

Council grounds maintenance

MESSY: The garden rubbish that led to the prosecution, also below

nance staff finally moved in to clear the garden.

Olomofe was not in court when his case was heard on Friday, May 31.

The magistrates fined him £500 and ordered him to repay Barking and Dagenham Council £500 for clearing the garden plus a £50 victim surcharge.

Jeanne Alexander, council cabinet member for crime, justice and communities, said after the court hearing: "We do not take decisions to prosecute lightly and always give people plenty of opportunity to ... clear up their land.

She also said: "I hope this case will act as a warning to others that eyesore gardens are not welcome in Barking and Dagenham. Residents should not have to live next door to rubbish-filled or overgrown gardens."

WITNESS APPEAL: Major fly tipping across Havering in the last week. More than 600 tonnes has been dumped. Taxpayers and landowners have had to foot the huge bill for clearing it all away.

What a load of rubbish!

SIX HUNDRED tonnes of waste has been dumped across Havering in a single week.

Havering Council has appealed for information after tax payers and private land owners were left to pick up the £70,000 bill.

The rubbish was dumped at locations in Upminster and Rainham, with one owner of a private farm finding around 100 tonnes of waste on this land.

Councillor Barry Tebbutt, cabinet member for StreetCare said: "This is a disgusting and thoughtless crime that affects private landowners, the tax payer and the environment.

"It can leave landowners with bills running into thousands of pounds through no fault of their own, which can be very distressful, especially in these tough economic times.

"There are dedicated facilities to deal with waste and there's no excuse for dumping it and letting private landowners and tax payers bear the cost."

The council, police and the Environment Agency is appealing for information about waste being dumped in the following places:

- Sunnings Lane, Upminster on June 7
- New extension for Upminster

Cemetery, Ockendon Road, between June 5 and 7.

■ Manor Farm, Pea Lane, Upminster, between June 6 and 7.

■ Berwick Pond Road, Rainham, between May 30 and 31.

A joint investigation by police, the Environment Agency and council officers is ongoing.

Anyone with information is asked to come forward as soon as possible by calling the Met on 101 or the Environment Agency on 0800 80 70 60 and quoting Upminster and Rainham fly-tipping.

Students say pants to poverty in challenge

'THAT'S Pants' took on a whole new meaning for a group of students.

They were due to sell as many as they could – as part of a sales challenge on Wednesday June 12.

The team from Barking and Dagenham College – Party in Your Pants – was in the finals of this year's PantrepreneurSHIP to shift as many undies as possible at London's Old Spitalfields Market.

The challenge, set by underwear brand, Pants to Poverty, sees teams compete to market ethically-sourced underwear, aiming to raise money for the Pi Foundation.

The team - Melanie Hinds, 29, from Romford, Daniel Bonfield, 29, from Dagenham, Skye Steward, 21, from East

Ham, Catherine Bannigan, 21, from Dagenham and Priya Makwana, 19, also from Dagenham are all studying an access to teaching course at the college.

As well as trying to sell as much underwear as they can the team had to pitch its business concept and strategy to a panel of business experts, who will select the overall champion.

Heads above the rest

A ROMFORD head teacher has been named as the best in London and the south east.

Mary Morrison of Bower Park Academy, Romford, is the winner of the Pearson Teaching Awards for Headteacher of the Year in a secondary school.

Judges praised the headteacher for leading Bower Park school from its position as a failing school to one of the best.

In January 2013, a letter from Rt Hon David Laws MP congratulated the school for being in the top 100 best improving schools.

In February 2013, the school became an academy through the conversion process which recognised the upward trend in the school's results.

Judges received feedback from scores of parents whose children attend the school.

One parent said: "My daughter had an outstanding experience here and Mary has inspired all the teachers with an amazing enthusiasm. She is able to find the right teachers with the right passion for teaching."

Another parent spoke of the way her son had achieved success despite having to battle dyslexia.

Another simply said: "The children want to be here."

One parent spoke of her daughter who had again,

TOP HEAD: Mary Morrison

worked through having dyslexia, becoming head girl and finally becoming a teacher herself.

The judges said: "Mary is simply an outstanding school leader."

Kathy Ellis, vice-chair of the school's governing body said: "Mary has been our inspiration and guiding light since her initial appointment. Her encouragement, tenacity and love of Bower Park was evident from her initial interview to the present day."

"Mary has made Bower Park a successful school despite hurdles thrown in her way."

A delighted Ms Morrison said: "There are two names on this award, one is mine and the second is Bower Park Academy. This award recognises the successes of us all."

The Pearson Teaching Awards are an annual celebration of exceptional teachers and teaching, founded in 1999 by Lord Puttnam. They recognize the life-changing impact of an inspirational teacher on the lives of the young people they teach.

Mary will now join fellow winners at the UK final of the awards on October 20, filmed in London and broadcast by the BBC.

Magnetic attracts praise

A CAR with more positives than negatives seems sure to attract sports coupé fans in the coming weeks.

A special limited edition of Peugeot's popular RCZ model called the Magnetic is about to hit the streets with an extra high level of standard equipment.

Buyers of the 170 cars being made available in the UK get the likes of front and rear parking aids, an interior sports kit comprising soft touch leather steering wheel and short shift gear lever, 19-inch matt black finish alloys and a Connect sat-nav with SOS and assistance functions.

Also included is a Black Pack featuring matt black roof arches plus gloss black front grille, door mirror covers and brake callipers while the leather front sports seats are black in the white model and flame red in the black version.

Prices are £23,350 for the RCZ Magnetic 1.6-litre THP 156bhp model, £27,185 for the 2.0 HDi 163bhp diesel and £27,735 for the 1.6 THP 200bhp.

Vauxhall extend FA deal

VAUXHALL has agreed a new four-year extension with the Football Association as lead partner for all 24 England squads.

The current Vauxhall agreement expires in July next year and the new deal will run until July 2018 – up to and including the FIFA World Cup Finals in Russia.

LIMITED EDITION: Peugeot's RCZ Magnetic. Only 170 will be available to buy.

Within that period, EURO 2016 will be played in France and the various England men's, women's, youth and disability teams will compete in matches across the world.

Club England chief Adrian Bevington said: "The FA, as a not-for-profit organisation, puts £100 million back into the game at every level, every year. Vauxhall's renewed commitment plays a key role in helping us sustain this level of reinvestment."

Suzuki helps with MoT

SUZUKI is fighting to ensure cars are in the best shape for passing the annual MoT test courtesy of a new maintenance initiative.

The Japanese brand has joined forces with the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders in its Minute or Two campaign.

Suzuki says that the most common reasons for failures in the annual inspection of cars more than three years old are some of the easiest to avoid – the likes of faulty bulbs, worn tyres and low fluid levels all requiring the expense of a second test.

The Minute or Two campaign promotes simple and effective maintenance.

Suzuki already has an impressive record when it comes to MoT passes, something confirmed by a 2012 survey which number-crunched more than 24 million test results to reveal the Splash mini-MPV as the model least likely to fail among all the cars on Britain's roads.

It posted a 90 per cent first-time pass rate, while both the Jimny and Grand Vitara ranked high too, no Suzuki model scoring lower than 85 per cent.

KAYAKERS SHOW UP SPOILSPORT COUNCIL

EIGHT months after Barking & Dagenham Council decided to stop supporting the borough's young people at the London Youth Games, a volunteer-led group won an emotional silver medal at the kayak sprint finals on Saturday at the London Regatta Centre.

It was the first time a Barking & Dagenham team had competed at the 2013 London Youth Games since a volunteer steering group stepped in to rescue the borough from being isolated as the only in London not taking part in Europe's largest annual youth sports event.

Earlier this year, the council had also blocked Barking & Dagenham Canoe Club from independently entering the London Youth Games.

But the creation of BARDAG Sports Foundation spearheaded by local teacher Mary-Ann Ramsay to co-ordinate borough entries, has led to a rush of borough teams eager to compete.

After collecting their silver medals, Barking & Dagenham's Team Manager Bill Playle said: "They pulled it out of the bag and they've all really gone for it. I'm a little bit emotional, I'm a little lost for words. I'm just choked."

"We've really been made to feel welcome it's just a shame our council don't feel the same way."

The team included 16 year old Diane Naftanalia of Warren Comprehensive, who had quit training following the council's withdrawal.

With the opportunity to compete at the London Youth Games restored, she was inspired to return in recent weeks and she won a gritty individual silver in the senior female cirrus class.

There was also an individual medal for 16 year old Gintaras Kaminskas of Eastbrook Comprehensive who won silver in the senior male cirrus class.

Richmond won the overall gold in the kayak sprint with Kensington & Chelsea and Ealing sharing bronze. Barking & Dagenham also took part in the kayak slalom event where they placed seventh overall.

PROUD: The Barking & Dagenham kayaking team

There were over 900 young people from 30 London boroughs competing at the Thames Water Regatta competing in rowing, kayaking and sailing.

In the coming weeks, Barking & Dagenham is also set to field teams in handball, netball, tag rugby, athletics, disability swimming, BMX, hockey, indoor rowing and adaptive (disabled) indoor rowing.

An Olympic borough, Barking & Dagenham Council revealed they would not be taking part in the 2013 London Youth Games just one month after the end of London 2012.

Barking & Dagenham still need support for kit and transport. If you are interested in supporting the team, or volunteering as a team manager, please email: BARDAG.sports.foundation@mail.com or info@londonyouthgames.org event. A record 104,463 young Londoners took part in the 2012 London Youth Games.

The London Youth Games is Europe's largest annual youth sports

The 2013 London Youth Games will be the biggest in history featuring 85 competitions across 33 sports and 27 event days, culminating in finals week at the National Sports Centre Crystal Palace in July where the overall winning borough are awarded the Jubilee Trophy.

England call for Charlotte

RISING STAR: Charlotte Thompson

Essex golfer Charlotte Thompson has added international recognition to her burgeoning list of achievements as her young golf career continues to blossom.

Thompson, 20, from Channels GC, Chelmsford, was selected as first reserve for the England team at the Welsh Open Stroke Play Championship in early May. The team finished in third position as Thompson gained invaluable international experience.

International honours are an appropriate reward for Thompson after her stellar achievements over the past year. During 2012 she qualified for the Ricoh British Women's Open, was runner-up in the English Women's Stroke Play Championship and was a key member of the victorious Essex team at the county finals.

Her success has continued in 2013, with Thompson retaining the Essex County Championship, finishing a creditable eighth in the English Women's Amateur Championship, and fourth in the prestigious Critchley Salver at Sunningdale, in May.

And, last weekend she finished tied 24th in the St Rule Trophy, a three-round event played at St Andrews, despite shooting a hugely impressive third-day, four-under-par round of 72 on the Old Course - the second-best score of the day.

Napier player of the month

The Atherton Bailey April Player of the Month was awarded to Graham Napier after the Essex all-rounder took 84 per cent of the votes.

Napier collected 238 runs in four championship innings including three half-centuries with his unbeaten 78 securing the victory against Hampshire.

"I would like to thank everyone who voted for me, winning the Atherton Bailey Player of the Month award has capped off a great start to the season for me and I look to continue my form all the way through the summer helping Essex to many more victories."

The Atherton Bailey Player of the Month nominations for May have been drawn and you can choose between Reece Topley, Graham Napier, David Masters & Tom Westley at www.essex-cricket.org.uk/potm.

McKinley goes all out for depleted Woodford team

Athletics

WOODFORD Green's men's British League team finished fifth in a close encounter at the second Premiership fixture of the season in Manchester on Saturday.

Shaftesbury Barnet, with 344 points, narrowly won from hosts Sale with 339. Birchfield improved from their seventh in the first fixture to place third, with Enfield on 273, just ahead of Woodford on 267, but clear of Newham 238, Sheffield 214 and Herne Hill 199.

In the league standings Shaftesbury on 16 points, and Sale 14, are clear of Enfield 10, Newham 9, Woodford 8, Birchfield 8, with Sheffield on 5 and Herne Hill on 2.

Woodford's team, although strong in parts, was far from full strength and many athletes competed in more than one event to ensure a decent overall team result.

Ryan McKinley, who competed in three distance events as well as gaining pole vault and relay points, made a major contribution and gained an 800m personal best.

With several of the top middle distance athletes unavailable for this fixture there were nerves amongst management that the club might struggle, but that was to discount the effort and recovery powers demonstrated by McKinley, an HCA member who competes for Woodford in the BAL.

He began his afternoon, in the absence of a specialist "B" string pole-vaulter, by ensuring that pole vault points were gained. In the end his clearance at a modest 2.20m proved valuable, placing fifth.

McKinley's first track race was over 800m. Usually a steeplechaser with limited track pedigree beyond that event, he had been encouraged by a recent 1500m pb of 3m 52secs.

Running sensibly towards the back after a very fast opening 200m, he gradually moved through to finish strongly in second in 1m 53.82secs, a huge personal best having never broken 1m 58 secs before.

Just 15 minutes later he lined up for the 3000m steeplechase. Again starting sensibly he moved through to gain third place in the "A" race recording, given his limited recovery, a very good 9m 23.5secs.

Later Ryan came sixth over 3000m in 8m 50.17secs, before running a leg in the 4x400m team.

Also doubling up in the middle distances, Tom Phillips had a very good run in the "A" 800m, Tom kicked hard 90m out and just failed to win by 0.01secs as he clocked 1m 53.91secs.

Later, Tom raced over 1500m but found it a bit quick after his 800m effort. Nevertheless he picked up good "B" points, placing fourth with 3m 59.76secs.
